Fenestra is a series of free standing cabinets, the surface of which is conceptualized as the fenestration of an architectural structure. Each module of the surface tile is made out of oxidised metal. The opening of shutters merges with the grooves between the tiles, creating an illusion of a continuous surface. The form mimicking a building, very aptly justifies the idea of furniture as architecture of smaller scale.

A-CLASS MARBLE

Labradorite Brown Marble is renowned for its captivating blend of earthy tones and mesmerising iridescence. It features a rich and warm colour palette, including deep browns, subtle greys, and hints of gold and copper. This natural stone is prized for its durability and resistance to scratching. It is used in fireplace surrounds and mantels, wall cladding, flooring etc
